

Major Trade Routes

The Bridge is a major commercial traffic access point to the south-central United States. The Bridge connects Highway 402 in Ontario to I-94 and I-69 in Michigan, which provides southerly access to the following metropolitan areas: Detroit, Michigan; Indianapolis, Indiana; Madison, Wisconsin; Minneapolis, Minnesota, and; St. Louis, Missouri, covering the Gulf Coast Corridor and extending down through Florida.