Perfect Geographically...

It doesn't matter how good your product is if you can't get it to market, and it doesn't matter the speed of production if you can't get your raw materials delivered on time.

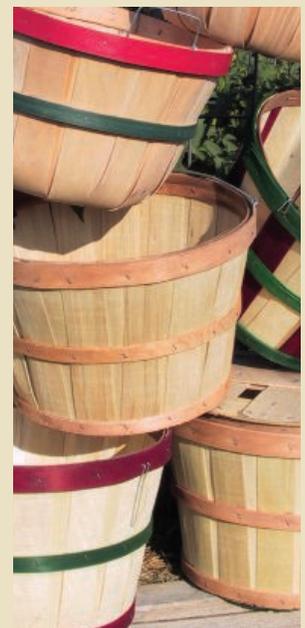

That's why affordable, accessible and dependable transportation systems are so vital to every business. Jacksonville is perfectly suited geographically for businesses to take advantage of major highway transport.

Located 125 miles southeast of Dallas, 125 miles southwest of Shreveport, and 180 miles north of Houston, the city is easily accessible to major urban markets via Interstate 20. Highways 69, 79, 175 and lines from the Union Pacific Railroad all run through Jacksonville.

From Jacksonville, common carrier can get your product to markets of some 16 million people within 24 hours.

Jacksonville has made the choice to become the optimum environment for growing strong businesses. No other community will show you more support and encouragement. If you want to succeed, you'll find willing partners here!

Live locally... compete globally... and enjoy optimum quality of life in beautiful Jacksonville, Texas.

Growing Academically...

A quality education is a necessity in today's competitive and global economy. Residents in Jacksonville have the opportunity to excel through our public school system. Those choosing to further their education have numerous options, right here at home.

Jacksonville is home to two privately owned junior colleges offering over 40 Associates Degrees in Arts, Science, Fine Arts and Humanities. The junior colleges, Jacksonville College and Lon Morris College, offer on-campus living, athletic programs, faith-based curriculum and small class sizes.

A Baptist seminary is located in Jacksonville, offering several Masters Degrees, Bachelor Degrees and Associates Degrees.

A four-year degree can also be obtained with a 30 minute commute to neighboring Tyler.

Competing Globally!

*Because you are known by the company you keep (and for cities, by the companies they keep),
be assured that Jacksonville has a great reputation.*

Its small-town atmosphere is enhanced by the big-business tradition of its industry.

Recognized for its technological advances, diversity of skills and an experienced workforce, Jacksonville continues to offer the optimum environment for manufacturers. From medical and surgical supplies, air conditioning coils, brass plated products and an advanced plastics community, the list of products that are shipped globally continues to grow in leaps and bounds.

East Texans' historically strong work ethic and their desire to "be the best," has helped local companies to post record production levels. At the same time, wages and benefits have remained stable in the area, helping better plan for future growth.

With a strong commitment to community, Jacksonville boasts numerous financial institutions, 2 major hospital systems, 3 colleges, a superb educational system, and a network of community-minded leaders and citizens. The Jacksonville Economic Development corporation has helped lay the foundation for success by providing outstanding community services, economic incentives, and a strong infrastructure supporting industry.
