

QUALITY OF LIFE

JONESVILLE, MICHIGAN

The City of Jonesville is located in southern Michigan, about 20 miles north of the point where the Michigan, Ohio, and Indiana borders meet.

Jonesville has grown to a diverse economy and approximately 2,300 residents. There is a significant manufacturing presence, including Martinrea, the largest manufacturer in Hillsdale County. Once primarily focused on the automobile industry, area manufacturers have diversified. Employers range from several locally owned businesses to national and international corporations.

As with any community, we think our restaurants are the best, and we have the national recognition to prove it. Jonesville has been recognized nationally as one of the great small towns for food. We have it all from fine dining for a date night out to casual fare and, of course, we have a great local ice cream shop! The restaurants in Jonesville are locally owned and operated and conveniently located near our two historic bed and breakfast facilities at either end of Downtown on US 12.

Culture abounds in Jonesville including local community theater. The Sauk Theatre is located in Downtown Jonesville and has long been the home of the Hillsdale County Community Theatre. From comedy to drama, musicals to children's productions, The Sauk highlights the amazing talents of Hillsdale County and beyond and truly does have something for everyone!

Riverfest

The St. Joseph River flows north through town and serves as the centerpiece of the annual Riverfest celebration the third weekend in May every year. The river provides a fun and challenging canoe and kayak route for people of all abilities and skill levels. The scenic river parallels the Jerry Russell Trail, a 1.4 mile, paved non-motorized trail converted from an abandoned rail bed. The beautiful trail is enjoyed by walkers and cyclists alike and provides the first public access to the St. Joseph River in Jonesville. The project was supported by an MDNR Natural Resources Trust Fund Grant, Don and Donna Playford, Jonesville Rotary Club, and the Hillsdale County Community Foundation.
